B. Consider the following fragment:

A voice came from inside the wall, in answer to my knock. [. . .] And there was the cat, standing on my wife's head, his red mouth wide open in a scream, and his one golden eye shining like fire. The clever animal! My wife was dead because of him, and now his evil voice was sending me to the gallows.

Comment on the above quoted fragment in 5 (five) sentences of your own. Do you agree with the narrator that the black cat was to blame for everything that happened in the story?
